AWARD DESCRIPTIONS

Canadian Forestry Achievement Award: The award recognizes individuals who have made unique and outstanding achievements in the field of forestry. It appreciates the value of consistent exceptional contributions made over a lifetime to the field of forestry in addition to singular momentous achievements. This award has the objective of encouraging excellence in the forestry profession.

Canadian Forestry Scientific Achievement Award: This award recognizes individuals who have made innovative and outstanding achievements in forestry research in Canada. Recognition can be for developing new practices, processes, or techniques, or for demonstrating the practical applications of research in forestry. This award has the objective of encouraging innovation, exploration, application, and excellence in forest research.

Canadian Forest Management Group Achievement Award: This award recognizes groups or teams who have made significant, unique, and outstanding contributions to forest management in Canada. It appreciates the multidisciplinary nature of forest ecosystem management by recognizing the many groups that are required to come together in the process. This award has the objective of encouraging excellence and leadership in group contribution to Canadian forest management.

Gender, Diversity and Inclusion Award: This award recognizes individuals who make significant, unique, and outstanding contributions to advance gender equity, equality, diversity and inclusion in their community or workplace in the field of forestry in Canada. This award honours the dedication and commitment of those individuals to increase equity, inclusivity and diversity of under-represented groups (e.g., women, Indigenous peoples, persons with disabilities, new Canadians and members of visible minorities) in the forest sector.

Gender, Diversity and Inclusion Group Achievement Award: This award recognizes groups (including volunteer groups and/or organizations) that have made significant and outstanding contributions to advance gender equity, equality, diversity and inclusion in the field of forestry in Canada. This award has the objective of encouraging the recruitment, retention and advancement of under-represented groups (e.g., women, Indigenous peoples, persons with disabilities, new Canadians and members of visible minorities) in the forest sector.

International Forestry Achievement Award: This award recognizes individuals who have made unique and outstanding contributions or achievements in international forestry. It recognizes that Canada is a world leader in the practice of forestry and appreciates the actions of individuals who have shared this leadership with other nations. It can also recognize the actions of an individual to bring nations together to better forestry practices globally. This award has the objective of encouraging excellence and cooperation in international forestry.

James M. Kitz Award: This award recognizes individuals who make significant, unique, and outstanding contributions in the field of forestry early in their career. It is named for James M Kitz, a member of the institute and an Alberta professional forester who met a sudden and untimely death at 36 years of age. Jim established a reputation early in his career for numerous contributions to the field of forestry. This award honours those contributions and the man by recognizing individuals who exemplify his lifestyle.

J. Michael Waldram Memorial Model Forest Fellowship: The Fellowship, valued at up to $1000, will be open to all Canadian Aboriginal youth enrolled in at least their second year in either a degree or diploma program in natural resources management at a Canadian university or college. One award will be granted annually. The fellowship was established in 2006, and the first fellowship recipient was awarded in 2008.

Presidential Award: This award recognizes individuals who have made significant or consistent outstanding contributions to the profession and practice of forestry. It appreciates the hard work, dedication, and commitment that individuals provide. This award has the objective of encouraging individuals to contribute to the leadership, promotion, and understanding of the profession and the practice of forestry.

Prince of Wales Award for Sustainable Forestry: To annually recognize the achievements of an outstanding young forest professional in Canada, so as to encourage engagement in and dedication to the principles of sustainable forest management policy, planning and practice, sound science-based land stewardship, and public outreach and knowledge exchange focusing on the wise use and conservation of forests and the ecosystems that they encompass.

Schlich Memorial Prize: This award recognizes an outstanding student chosen by the university and technical school(s) represented by the Section(s) hosting the annual general meeting. The Schlich Memorial Prize is named after Sir William Schlich, who was born in 1840 and was a German forester who became Inspector General of Forests to the Government of India. He also founded the School of Forestry at Oxford in 1905, and was knighted in 1909 for his many achievements. He passed-away in 1925 and the Oxford Forestry School sponsored a campaign to create a fitting memorial - the Schlich Memorial Fund. The trust itself was established in 1929, initiating the recognition of outstanding contributions to forestry in a number of countries including the UK, Australia, New Zealand, the U.S. and Canada.
